

Abu Dhabi to get new centre for residence visa medical tests

The move is designed to meet the growing demand for the expanded availability of residence visa medical fitness tests.

- Staff Report
- Published: 00:00 May 22, 2010

-  GULF NEWS
- Reader comments \(0\)

Abu Dhabi: The Abu Dhabi Health Services Company (Seha) will open its new Disease Prevention and Screening Centre in Mussafah on Sunday.

The old facility in the same area will be shut down on the same day. The facility is managed and operated by its Ambulatory Healthcare Services (AHS).

The move is designed to meet the growing demand for the expanded availability of residence visa medical fitness tests.

The new centre is designed according to international standards, which aim to provide the best service through the smooth completion of screening procedures within the shortest possible timeframe.

The centre will function from 7am to 7pm, Sunday to Thursday, in order to keep pace with the remarkable growth in various sectors of commercial, industrial and urban spheres in Abu Dhabi.

The rapid growth of various business sectors in Abu Dhabi has resulted in an increased influx of foreign workers to the emirate. The launch of the new centre is a step that reflects the commitment of Seha to provide complete medical services to keep pace with the growth within the capital on par with the best standards globally.

The facility is dedicated to procedures for the medical examination of migrant workers as well as to provide preventive care to the community.

It consists of twenty-four reception stations, eight medical examination rooms, and six rooms for blood testing.